During his sojourn in the city, Mr. Carr has made many friends, particularly among the members of the rowing club, of which organization he was president until his resignation last evening.

The target marks for the troops stationed at Fort Stevens have been put in position, but, owing to the foggy weather the past few days, the soldiers were unable to do target practice. The marks were placed at the outside end of the jetty, about five miles from Fort Stevens. There are 25 men at the fort detailed to take part. Friday and Saturday the marks were almost entirely obscured, and only a few shots were fired. The fog hung heavily over the marks, and after three shots had been fired further practice was postponed until more favorable weather. The men may resume practice tomorrow if the weather is favorable. The men over at Fort Columbia fired 35 shots yesterday at a fixed mark five miles outside of the jetty. The report of the guns was plainly heard in Astoria. Further practice at this fort has been deferred until Tuesday or Wednesday. If practice is resumed at Fort Stevens tomorrow it is expected that the requisite number of shots will be fired to complete the course allotted.

Charles C. Masten, the well-known Swensen logger, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Masten is one of the most enterprising loggers on the lower Columbia. For many years he has been engaged in logging on the streams in Washington county, on the Washington side of the river. During the disastrous years of 1893 and 1894, when so many of the loggers on the Washington side of the river were financially ruined, Mr. Masten held his own and engaged in business in Clatsop county in Washington in 1897. His camp is located on Mary's creek, about 10 miles back of Swensen, in a fine belt of timber. About an average of 25 men is employed in the camp the year round. His camp has the latest logging appliances and two logging engines of the latest design are employed in hauling the logs from the woods to the roadway. About 50,000 feet of logs are put in the river daily. Mr. Masten is now building a steel track from Swensen two and a half miles into the woods. He is building it on the old skid road track, which is being torn up. When this is finished he will be in a position to continue logging during the winter on a large scale. This will necessitate the employment of over 20 men, all of whom are paid the advanced scale of wages. Mr. Masten says that game of all kinds abounds in the vicinity of his logging camp. A few days ago a few of the loggers went on a hunt and killed a fine elk only a short distance away. Mr. Masten has one of the best logging shows in Clatsop county and has sufficient timber in the vicinity to keep his camp running for the next three years. He thinks the present boom in lumber will continue for some time.

A STRIKE EPIDEMIC.
Strikes are serious things, and in view of the number that have occurred it is well to remember that until the cause is removed, dissatisfaction will depreciate work and prove a menace to society. But it is not only the commercial life which has its strikes. The whole country is groaning under the strike of the stomach, and many people make the mistake of trying to suppress the symptoms instead of removing the cause. There is but one sure way of curing the ills which arise from a rebellious stomach, and that is
